

Shared Health Summary

What is it?

They are typically completed by a person's General Practitioner, a Registered Nurse or an Aboriginal or Torres Strait Islander Health Practitioner. It may include past medical history information, allergies, an immunisation history and any previous adverse medication reactions. It may include past medical history, current medicines list, allergy information, immunisation history and any previous adverse medicines reactions.

Considerations

- Shared health summaries are presented sequentially and may have been authored by different clinicians.
- Because a shared health summary can be uploaded by different healthcare providers, you may choose to view multiple summaries to gain a more complete clinical picture.
